Speaker One: Welcome to the City History podcast. This is episode number 4. Today's city is Murray, UT.		City History - Murray.m4v
Speaker Two: Did you know that Murray was once called South Cottonwood. Murray lies between Big and Little Cottonwood canyons
Speaker One: Murray is named for Eli Murry who was territorial governor from 1880 to 1886. Murray became a city in 1902 although it was settled in 1851.
Speaker Two: Murray was an industrial town in its early days. The first silver bars produced in Utah came from a smelter in murray.
Speaker Two: Today Murray is a thriving community with a population of over 45,000. One of its new landmarks is the Fashion Place mall which is currently undergoing renovation.
